Hart's Silversmiths Workshop

Iconic Market Hall

Chipping Campden has a rich history renowned for being at the centre of the wool trade during the middle ages. Much of the architectural heritage emanates from the wealth created during that period & its history dates back to Saxon times.

Court Barn is a Museum of craft & design that celebrates the architect, designer & social reformer C R Ashbee from East London in 1902. Harts Silversmiths workshop is the last operating remnant of the guild of Handicrafts having moved from London in 1902. The working traditions now continue through the grandsons. The 400 year old Market Hall is in the High Street & is part of the National Trust.
